5 Major Strengths and Weaknesses of Jose Rizal University

Strengths

- Affordability - we all know sending our kids to college is a privilege to some Filipinos. Most parents today decide to send their kids to either public universities or private institutions with lower fees than the others. This is one of the strengths of JRU. The institution has one of the lowest fees in Manila but still meets the standard of many parents and students.
- Location – the university is easily accessible to many students coming from different locations. You can find an easy route to go to JRU unless you are living in the Visayan Region.
- Staff – we may not always realize it but good staffs can also affect how a student will fare in college.
- Faculty – full-time faculty teaches most classes especially in very rigorous courses like the BSA where faculties who are teaching are only allowed if they passed the board examination.
- Courses – so many courses are being offered at JRU for a fraction of a price. You are sure to find a course that fits you.

Weaknesses

- Facilities – the school is things a tertiary level should have.
- Size – arguably one of the smallest colleges in the metro.
- Campus experience – because of its size, you are pretty sure to find the campus life lackluster.
- Subjects – subjects like FOS needs to be abolished since they do nothing to help students prepare for their careers.
- PE – a subject that I was looking forward to in college became one of my most hated subjects. Constant shuffling of PE instructors and changes of classrooms made me hate it.

Vision

Jose Rizal University seeks to create promising individuals that will not only fuel our country's economy but also morality and values of the youth. The institution will instill in the youth the principles of a moral-driven person and equip them with the education needed to help them in their development as the hope of our country.

Mission

To provide a quality education with the fraction of a price and to make the students feel the belongingness in the JRU community. Learning can become a joyful journey when you are with the right people.
